Trophy History 2011: the event was renamed Under 19 Men's Single

Background Tony Novotny (1953-1996) was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, but fled the Communist regime with his parents and brother in 1965. They settled in North Toronto, and Tony took up rowing, first at the Argonaut R.C., and later the Don R.C.. He represented Canada at the 1971 Youth World Championships, the 1974 World Championships, and the 1979 Pan-American Games. At the 1985 World Masters Championships and Masters Games, his straight four won golds at both regattas in their age group and the next younger age group. At the Don R.C., Tony was admired for his commitment to training and his willingness to help others - even lending his single to scullers in need. The trophy was donated by the Don R.C. in memory of this dedicated oarsman who died of cancer at age 42.

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Senior B Men's Pair
2009: the event was renamed the Under 23 Men's Pair

Background John Bennett (1910?-?) and Jim Hogan (1917?-?) were oarsmen and coaches at the West Side R.C.. The two men were in the 1936 Senior Eight which won that Henley event for the first time for West Side. In 1947, they won the Senior Pair at the U.S. National Regatta. John Bennett became a Director of the Club in 1937, helped to organize the 1949 National Rowing Championships in Buffalo while coaching the champion Senior Eight at that regatta. John also helped to start the rowing programme at the University at Buffalo in 1967. Jim Hogan was a Director of West Side in the 1940's, Club Captain in the 1960's and a coach of novice oarsmen into the 1970's. The bronze statue is the work of Buffalo artist Larry Griffis, who rowed for John Bennett and Jim Hogan.

2009: the event was renamed the Under 23 Men's Double

Background Harry Fry (1905-1985) and Bill Thoburn (1906-1997) were in the Leander B.C. crew that won the Junior Eight at the 1930 Henley. That crew represented Canada at the British Empire Games which were held in Hamilton that year. They won bronze. In 1932, they were in the Canadian eight which won the bronze medal at the Olympic Games in Los Angeles. The two men combined to win the Junior Double for the Leander B.C. at the 1934 Henley, so it was appropriate that the Leander B.C. donated the trophy for that event in 1972. Harry also rowed in the Canadian Eight at the 1936 Berlin Olympics. He later became President of the Leander B.C. and Bill coached Westdale Secondary School crews at the Leander B.C..

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Championship Women's Eight

Background The trophy was created by Niagara-on-the-Lake artist Campbell Scott for Brock University. It was originally called the Geoffrey Davis Memorial Trophy in honor of Brock's first Dean of Arts and Sciences who died of a heart attack in 1967 at the age of 45. The trophy was awarded to the university crew accumulating the most points in the Ontario university rowing season. The first recipients, in 1978, were Brock's Women's Varsity crew. Because Brock had difficulty retrieving the valuable trophy after each season, it was withdrawn, but in 1989, it was renamed the Brock University 25th Anniversary Trophy to mark Brock's first quarter century, and donated to the Henley Regatta. The first presentation was made by Brock's new Director of Athletics, Bob Davis.

Background George W. "Paddy" Cline (1899-1993) rowed for the Leander B.C.. In 1930, he won both the Junior and Senior 150 lb. Eights, and in 1931 he won the Senior 150 lb. Eight again. Paddy became head coach at Leander after the 1936 season and led the Club through some very successful years. He was the coach of the eight chosen to represent Canada at the canceled 1940 Olympics, coach of the 1948 Olympic eight, and the four which represented Canada at the 1952 Helsinki Olympics. Their shell was damaged in transit, and they finished out of the medals in borrowed equipment. In 1965, he became the Assistant Clerk of the Scales, and then Head Clerk of the Scales at Henley, a position he held until 1985.

Trophy History 1942: the event was renamed the Senior 145 lb. Eight. [trophy lost ca. 1961]
1985: the event was renamed the Senior 140 lb. Eight
1998: reassigned to the Senior B Women's Eight. [trophy found]
2009: the event was renamed the Under 23 Women's Eight

Background Geoffrey Barron Taylor (1890-1915) competed for the Argonaut R.C.. At the 1907 Henley, he won 5 races: Junior, Intermediate and Senior Fours, and Junior and Senior Eights. In 1908, at the London Olympics, he stroked both the Canadian Four and Eight to bronze medals. At Henley in 1911, he won the Senior Four and Eight. His Argonaut crew won the Senior Eight at the 1912 Henley after representing Canada at the Stockholm Olympics. Taylor was a Lieutenant in the Canadian Infantry (Central Ontario Regiment) and died on April 24, 1915 at the Second Battle of Ypres, West-Vlaanderen, Belgium. The trophy was donated by the Detroit B.C., and presented by Club President, Henry P. Williams. It was manufactured by the Gotham Co., New York, New York.

Trophy History 2000: the event name was changed to the Championship Men's Single

Background George Frederick Galt (1855-1928) stroked the Argonaut R.C. Four to victory at the first and second regattas of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen in 1880 and 1881. In 1881, he moved to Winnipeg and helped organize the Winnipeg R.C.. In the early years, he was a competitor, Captain, President and coach. He retired as the Club's first Captain in 1903. He served as Vice-president of the C.A.A.O. from 1903 to 1910. Galt was a respected businessman, and so, during WWI, Prime Minister Borden appointed him to the War Purchasing Commission for 4 years. He refused remuneration for this work, and declined a knighthood. The Winnipeg R.C. presented the George F. Galt Memorial Trophy to the C.A.A.O. in his memory.

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Senior Men's Eight [23 or older]

Background Edward "Ned" Hanlan (1855-1908) was Canada's greatest sports figure of the 19th century. Although a lightweight - 1.75 m tall and weighing 69 kg - he was the professional rowing champion of the world, beating the best in Canada, the United States, England and Australia. At a time when his opponents were sliding on grease chamois pants, Hanlan used a shell with a seat which slid on grease, and swivel oarlocks - significant advantages. He defended his title 6 times before losing it in 1884. He won his first professional race in 1874, and he lost fewer than a dozen of the estimated 300 races he was in over a variety of distances from 1.6 km to 8 km for prizes between $100 and $8,000. A 1986 movie about Hanlan, The Boy in Blue, was filmed in part on the Henley Course.

Trophy History 2011: the event was renamed the Under 19 Women's Eight

Background Kevin Harris was the Head Coach of the Potomac B.C.'s Junior Women's Eight [under 18] crew that won at the 1995 Henley, the first time a Potomac B.C. crew had won that event. He has also coached high school crews in the Washington, D.C. area, and is currently Head Coach of women's rowing at the University of Tulsa. Scott Fisher was the Co-Head Coach in the summer of 1995 and the head rowing coach of a Washington D.C. high school during the scholastic season. Under the leadership of Ralph Oser, the trophy was designed and purchased by the parents of that 1995 Potomac B.C. crew as a tribute to the crew's accomplishment and their coaches, Kevin Harris and Scott Fisher.

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Senior Lightweight Women's Four [23 or older]

Background The Henley Island Helpers were organized in 1963. A group of women whose husbands and sons were involved in rowing, felt the need to raise funds to support the St. Catharines R.C. Old Boys' Association, the Rowing Club and the Henley Aquatic Association. Money was raised by selling hot dogs and juice from the clerk's booth, box lunches at dances, and by putting on fashion shows, penny sales, and flea markets. Funds were used to purchase rowing shells, oars and other rowing equipment. In 1993, the Henley Island Helpers celebrated 30 years of working for the betterment of rowing, and donated this trophy to mark the anniversary.

2009: the event was renamed the Under 17 Men's Coxed Four

Background Herb Gray (1931-2014) was a former Deputy Prime Minister of Canada. In 1962, he was elected to Parliament for the riding of Essex West, as a member of the Liberal Party of Canada. He was re-elected in 12 subsequent federal elections, making him the longest continuously-serving Member of Parliament in Canadian history. As Deputy Prime Minister in the government of Jean Chrétien, he took an interest in bringing the Henley Course up to FISA standards. For his efforts, the trophy was presented by the 1999 St. Catharines World Rowing Committee in his honour. The trophy, created by St. Catharines artist Perry Wakulich, is a maquette for "The Spirit of St. Catharines" statue which stands in Rennie Park.

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Senior Men's Double [23 or older]

Background When the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen held their First Regatta in 1880, this "Challenge Cup for Double Sculls" was one of 3 challenge cups offered for competition. It is the only one still in competition for the event to which it was dedicated. The Hop Bitters Manufacturing Co., which donated the trophy, had its headquarters in Rochester, New York and a branch office in Toronto. According to a company ad, it produced patent medicine which cured neuralgia, "female trouble," kidney, liver and urinary complaints. Asa T. Soule, the company founder, claimed the elixir would cure "all diseases of the stomach, bowels, nervousness, sleeplessness, female complaints, and drunkenness." The company dissolved in 1892, but its name lives on because of the trophy donated in 1880.

Background Joseph Wright (1864-1950) was a 6-time winner in the Pairs at the C.A.A.O. Regatta: 1889, 1893 and 1895 for the Toronto R.C.; 1897, 1898 and 1900 for the Argonaut R.C.. In 1897, 1898 and 1901 he was in the winning Argonaut Four. In 1898, he also won a medal in the Eight. When the Regatta moved permanently to St. Catharines in 1903, and became the Henley, Joe's Argonaut crew won the Eight race the first 5 times it was held. The 1904 Eight also won a silver medal at the Olympics. His 1908 Argo Eight won bronze at the Olympics. Joe went on to coach, first at Argos, then University of Pennsylvania (1915 -1926), where, in 1917, he introduced lightweight rowing. He then coached at Penn A.C.. In 1950, the Canadian Press named him Canada's greatest oarsman of the half-century.

Background Justin Fryer (1940-2015) began rowing as a Master at the Calgary R.C.. He was President of the Alberta R.A. in 1991 and 1992, and of Rowing Canada Aviron from 1999 to 2002. In his retirement, he coached high school crews at the Maple Bay R.C.. At its Annual Congress in Seville in 2002, FISA adopted a plan to include adaptive rowing in the Paralympic Games. This required FISA to add adaptive races to its World Championships which meant that nations had to set up programmes. Justin committed Canada to this plan of action by signing the so-called Seville Protocol as President of RCA. This act provided the impetus to move competitive adaptive rowing in Canada forward at an accelerated pace. To commemorate Justin's role in achieving that, RCA donated this trophy.

Background The trophy was donated by William C. Muir (1866-1948), who was born, and died in Port Dalhousie. He was the third-born child (of 10) of William and Christina Muir. William and his brother Alexander had founded Muir Bros. Dry Dock which was located at the end of the Course where Rennie Park now is. The Muir family owned the business from 1850 to 1946. The dry dock continued to operate into the 1960's. In 1970, the site was filled in and made into a park. In 1907, when William C. Muir donated the trophy, he was living in New York City, however, he returned to Port Dalhousie to work in the family business around 1911.

Trophy History 2000: the event was renamed the Men's Singles Dash
2009: the event was renamed the Senior Men's Singles Dash
2014: the event was renamed the Men's Singles Dash

Background Glenn Murphy (1916-2011) sculled for the St. Catharines R.C. between 1935 and 1938. He and his brother Rodger (1918-1981) owned Murphy Motors, an outboard motor and snowmobile dealership. Since Glenn had competed in the Quarter-Mile Dash Open, donating the trophy for this event was fitting. Glenn and Rodger's cousins, Greg and Frank Murphy rowed successfully for 10 years beginning in 1946. Greg then had a distinguished coaching career. Among other scullers, he coached his children, Greg, Jr., Frank, John and Margaret who all had success at Henley. Among their other wins, Frank won the trophy donated by his father's cousins in 1983, 1987, 1989, 1992 and 2001, while John won it in 1996, 1997 and 2002. The trophy was made by Mason Trophy Inc..

Background George Nelles Stacey (1888-1968) joined the Vancouver R.C. in 1906, and remained a member for 62 years. When his competitive years were over, he became active in other capacities, serving as Club President in 1918 and again in 1932 and 1933. From the early 1950s to the 1960s, Nelles was chief fundraiser for Vancouver R.C. and University of British Columbia crews. He was Chairman of the Rowing Committee of the 1954 British Empire Games in Vancouver. In 1955, he was Manager of the U.B.C. eight at the Henley Royal Regatta. He accompanied Vancouver and U.B.C. crews to all the major international regattas. In 1966, he was inducted into the BC Sports Hall of Fame. The inaugural presentation of the trophy in 1969 was made by its donor, his widow, Karen Stacey.

Background Jamie Wilson rowed for the St. Catharines R.C.. In 1980, he won the Junior and Senior 145 lb. Eights at Henley. In 1982, he and Tim Dowd won the Senior 135 lb. Pair. Jamie coached, and was Club Captain in 1994 and 1995. The name of the trophy comes from the humorous way he was invariably greeted by his friends. Instead of saying "Hello" or "Hi" he was greeted with a loud boisterous, "Nooowww JJJiiimmmmmmm!" It never failed to put a smile on people's faces. The name of the trophy epitomizes Jamie's spirit and the positive influence he had on the people around him. The trophy was created by Perry Wakulich, who competed against Jamie in cross-country running, track and wrestling. They also rowed together at Lakeport S.S...

Dedicated 2018 Event Masters Regatta Championship
First Winner Genesee R.C.

Trophy History The trophy was originally donated to the CSSRA in 1974? in memory of Gregory Page. It was presented to the winners of the Novice 68 kg Coxed Four, then the Junior Men's 70 kg Coxed Four. When all the CSSRA trophies were retired in 2017, the Page Memorial Trophy was given new life as the Masters Club Efficiency Trophy for Henley.

Background Gregory Page - to whom the trophy is dedicated - was the father of Clint Page, long-time Henley volunteer. Clint (1924-2021), rowed for the St. Catharines R.C. in 1942. He spent more than a quarter of a century raising over $1 million for the StCRC and CHRC. At Henley, Clint began as Assistant Clerk of the Course in 1969 and retired as Chief Registrar in 2000. He was inducted into the St. Catharines Sports Hall of Fame in 2003, and was recognized for 60 years of volunteering for the StCRC and St. Catharines Rowing Alumni. Clint served in the Canadian Merchant Navy in WWII, and from 1948 to 1954 he was a steward on the Beaverbrae transporting refugees from Eastern Europe to Canada. Both his daughter and son rowed, as did his granddaughter.

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Senior Lightweight Women's Eight [23 or older]

Background When Dan Kostuk (1930-1991), a longtime Henley volunteer, found a trophy without its base in a box of junk where the Henley trophies were stored, he thought it should be repaired and cleaned, and incorporated into a new trophy. He and Bill Stevens raised funds in Port Dalhousie to pay for the refurbishing by Burke and Wallace Ltd., and in 1985, the People of Port Dalhousie Trophy was presented for the first time. It wasn't until after Dan's death that Bill realized that the salvaged urn on its top was the original Challenge Cup for Single Sculls, one of 3 challenge cups from the First Regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen in 1880. Bill Stevens was a St. Catharines R.C. coxie. He won Henley medals in the 1963 Senior 135 lb. Eight and the 1964 Junior 155 lb. Eight.

Background Robert G. Dibble (1891-1960), a member of the Don R.C., was the best sculler of his day. In 1912, he won 3 Henley races, the Junior, Intermediate and Senior Singles. He successfully defended his Senior Single title in 1913, 1914, 1915 and again, after serving as a Lieutenant in the Canadian Artillery, when the Henley resumed after World War I, in 1919 and 1920, in spite of having been wounded 3 times in France. No other sculler has won the Senior Single 6 consecutive times. In 1920 and 1921, he also won the Open Dash for Singles. In 1932, after fire destroyed the Don R.C. shell house, Bob became involved in leading the Club through difficult financial times, eventually helping to secure a new shell house in 1938. He was president of the C.A.A.O. in 1940 and 1941.

Trophy History

Background Frank Dwyer (1927-2015), the "Silver Fox", was a longtime member of the St. Catharines R.C.. He won his first Henley medal in 1946 in the Junior 155 lb. Eight. In 1949, he won the Senior 155 lb. Eight, the first St. Catharines crew to win that event at Henley. He won the Senior 155 lb. Eight again in 1950. After retiring as a competitor, Frank turned to coaching high school, club and national crews. Aside from being a successful coach, he mentored other coaches, and earned the affection and respect of everyone he helped. Some of those people commissioned the trophy to honour the man they fondly described as unselfish, generous, giving and humble. The trophy, which features a silver fox, was created by one of the men Frank befriended, St. Catharines artist Perry Wakulich.

Background St. Andrew's United Church was located a short walk west from the Henley Grandstand on Main St. between Ann and Elgin Sts.. In 1852, services for the 32-member Presbyterian community of Port Dalhousie began in the newly constructed St. Andrew's Church. The building we see today was built in 1894. In 1925, the congregation of St. Andrew's decided to join with other Presbyterians, the Methodists, and the Congregationalists to form the United Church of Canada. The church continued to be a centre for community activities until October 2014, when an aging and dwindling congregation necessitated the church's closing. The MacKay Family donated the trophy to mark the Church's 150th anniversary.

Trophy History

Background Before this award was instituted, the Regatta Championship was determined by the number of points accumulated by clubs. That system favoured large clubs with many entries. The emblem of the Regatta Championship, the Maple Leaf Trophy, was awarded between 1949 and 1979 to only 3 clubs: St. Catharines R.C. (22 times), West Side R.C. (6 times) and Detroit B.C. (3 times). This award is based on efficiency. To qualify, a club must compete in at least 4 final events, must enter at least 14 competitors who row in these races and the club must contest at least 1 sweep oared event and 1 sculling event. The efficiency percentage is determined by dividing the number of points actually accumulated by clubs by the number of points they might have potentially achieved.

Cassady, Kevin Garrity, Nick Blannin, Bill McManus

Trophy History 2011: the event was renamed the Under 19 Men's Eight

Background The St. Catharines Rowing Alumni Association began in 1951 as an informal group of rowing supporters. By 1953, the numbers and interest had grown, so they became an official organization: the St. Catharines Rowing Club Old Boys' Association. When Read's Island was purchased in 1955, the Old Boys worked with the Rowing Club and the Henley Aquatic Association to prepare the Island facilities. They cut trees, moved rubble and built the road from Main St. to the water. In 1957, the Old Boys formalized its organization with a constitution, and named its first president, Bill Smith. The first bridge to the renamed Henley Island was installed in 1958, and the clubhouse was built over the next 4 years. The club adopted its current name in 1975. Perry Wakulich created the trophy.

Trophy History

2000: reassigned to the Senior Lightweight Men's Quad

Background Thomas Edison Lane (1896-1964) was a longtime member of the Detroit B.C.. Wounded in World War I, he was unable to compete as an oarsman when he returned home, so he became the Manager of Detroit crews. Tom was a director of the Club from 1934 to 1938 and its President in 1938. He was a member of the N.A.A.O. Executive Committee from 1934 to 1949, becoming its President in 1949. He was a Finish Judge at Henley from 1937 to 1949. In 1948 and 1949 he was Vice Chairman then Chairman of the American Olympic Rowing Committee. From 1958 to 1964, Tom was a member of the committee promoting Detroit as the 1968 Olympic venue. An obituary referred to him as "the leading patriarch of rowing at the Detroit Boat Club."

Trophy History 1982: reassigned to the Senior 135 lb. Pair. 1985: the event was renamed the Senior 140 lb. Pair. 1998: presented to the Open 140 lb. Four. 1999: presented to the Intermediate 140 lb. Eight. 2000: reassigned to the Junior Women's Quad [under 19]. 2011: the event was renamed the Under 19 Women's Quad

Background Thomas Joseph [the inscription on the trophy is wrong] Gannon (1875-1954) was a boat builder at the Detroit B.C.. Born in Paris, Ontario, he moved to Detroit with his parents as a child. In 1914, he was hired by Detroit's head coach, Divie Duffield, and built boats there for the next 38 years, not only for the Detroit B.C, but also for the Ecorse B.C., and Detroit R.C.. Thomas was the head rigger for the U.S. rowing team at the 1928 Olympics. He invented a gateless oarlock and an adjustable rigger. He freely gave advice to anyone who asked, and was so highly respected that in 1945, Detroit and Ecorse oarsmen teamed up to give him a testimonial banquet. For 31 years, not only did Thomas and his partner Carl Peterson build boats together, they did odd jobs around the Detroit and Ecorse B.C.'s.

Trophy History 2011: the event was renamed the Under 19 Women's Pair

Background Tom McGuinness (1931-2003), known affectionately as "Pa", got involved in rowing when his granddaughter Lisa Terreberry took up the sport at age 11. He drove her to practices, helped her crews on the dock, and cheered her on through high school and her first year of university. Likewise, he supported his daughter, Cathy Terreberry, when she took up Masters sculling. When Lisa and Kara Farquharson won the Junior Women's Pair for the South Niagara R.C. at the 2002 Henley, he was upset that there was no trophy for the event, and so, after he passed away, his family decided that a fitting way to honour him and his dedication to them would be to donate a trophy for that event in his memory. Each Henley, members of Pa's family make the presentation of the trophy.

In 2011, he and Terry McCall, representing Canada, won bronze medals at the Pan American Games in the Men's Lightweight Double. Travis and Trevor, Tyler's oldest brother, wanted Tyler to be remembered for what a pairs crew represents - brotherhood. St. Catharines artist Perry Wakulich created the trophy under the direction of Trevor and Travis, with their brotherhood theme in mind, to pay tribute to Tyler. The inaugural presentation was made by Trevor and Travis, and their parents Pam King and Michael King.

Trophy History 2000: reassigned to the Senior Men's Pair [23 or older]
The original trophy was very tall and became unstable. A height reduction helped, but in 2011 it was completely refurbished.

Background William Hamilton Merritt (1793-1862) saw active service on the Canadian side in the War of 1812. After the War, he was involved in several mercantile activities in and around St. Catharines. Merritt is best known for his part in the promotion of the Welland Canal, linking lakes Ontario and Erie. The first three routes of the Canal began in Port Dalhousie and used the same body of water that the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta has used since 1903, the same year the Dominion Marine Association - donor of the trophy - was founded. The finish tower sits on land which was part of the tow path of the first and second canal routes. The original trophy was created by Donald Snider of St. Catharines.

Trophy History

Background William J. Cotter (1930-2015) began rowing at the West Side R.C. in 1948. In 1951, he won a Henley medal in the Junior Eight. Bill served as President of the Club from 1965 to 1982. After the fire which destroyed the shell house and its contents in 1975, Bill, in his dual capacity as President and Club counsel, spent the next 4 years guiding West Side through several legal quagmires with the goal of rebuilding the Club on a new site. He spent countless hours on legal matters at no charge to the Club. Bill was inducted into the Greater Buffalo Sports Hall of Fame in 2002. The trophy was donated by the West Side R.C. in thanks for his contributions to the Club. It was created by another West Side Past President, Jim Schaab, who used white maple for the maple leaf.

Trophy History 1986: the event was renamed the Intermediate Eight
2000: reassigned to the Senior B Men's Eight
2009: the event was renamed the Under 23 Men's Eight

Background The Wyandotte B.C. was established in 1875. The Club's first Canadian Henley wins were in 1926, the Junior and Senior Eights, and they may have been the spur for the J.B. Ford Co., a Wyandotte chemical manufacturer, to donate a trophy in 1928. "The Wyandotte Club this morning announce the gift to the Association of a trophy to be known as the Wyandotte Cup for a new competition at C.A.A.O. regattas—Junior 150-pound Eights." [The St. Catharines Standard July 7, 1928] Dr. Ashley of Wyandotte made the presentation to C.A.A.O. President, Sid Smith, that evening. The J.B. Ford Co. consolidated with Michigan Alkali In 1943, to become the Wyandotte Chemical Corp. which became part of the BASF Group of companies in 1969.
